Friday, August 3, 1906

The political pot is warming up. There will be some strange bed-fellows in this state ere long.

Hickman is supposed to keep the "lid on," but it must have been tilted just a little Saturday night.

Hon. Robert B. Franklin, of Frankfort, is considering the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

We notice in our exchanges a number of towns are having heavy penalties to pay on account of damages sustained by dilapidated sidewalks. A broken board in the walk cost one town $2,500. A word to the wise is sufficient.

There are two ways of getting into a newspaper, "purchasing an interest and purchasing an interview." There is still another way, pulling the wool over the editor's eyes and getting in for nothing. This is a very popular form of entry.

There is some objection to the suggestion of W. J. Bryan and Gov. Douglas, of Massachusetts, as the Democratic Presidential ticket for 1908, on account of Gov. Douglas not being able to carry his own state. This same thing is true of Bryan; Nebraska is also Republican.

An exchange in the other end of the state says that Judge W. S. Pryor and Senator Joe Blackburn both refuse to offer for the Governorship. The Democracy of the State are awaiting with breathless solicitude to hear from Ollie James.

Ollie James is from this district, he is THE man, and it is entered the race he will be nominated and elected.

When we see so many young men with their hair parted in the middle and hanging down over their foreheads so as to obscure every trace of intellect, and so many young women with their hair all frizzly-frowly and flopping around over their faces in fifty different directions we are not surprised that the followers of Darwin are now positively sure that mankind descended from the monkey.

The Emerson Boat Show Will Soon Be Here.

Emerson's floating theater was at the boat landing Wednesday evening and gave a full house the musical extravaganza "Humpty Dumpty."

There may be better shows than Emerson's Humpty Dumpty, but if so they have not heretofore come to Henry.

The Emerson floating theater is a magnificent affair. It is the largest and most comfortably seated of all the show boats that come up the Illinois river, with a seating capacity equal to the large city theaters, and has been entirely remodeled and magnificently refurnished. The stage, which the size of the boat allows to be wide and roomy, has been fitted up expressly with new scenery and elaborate stage appliances for the presentation of "Humpty Dumpty."

This was a great show which depends largely on stage appearances for its effects, and while in large cities where spectacular plays have a run for months such plays are common, it is only in a floating theater, which can be moved from place to place, is it possible to give such plays. Hence the play Wednesday evening, with its gorgeous scenery, its ingenious machinery and its many appliances for appearing and disappearing, was a revelation to many of the spectators.

The characters all through were superbly costumed where such costumes were appropriate, and all the principal actors filled their parts to perfection.

The music, both as a band and orchestra, under the direction of the leader, Frank Griffith, was very fine and did very much to enliven and enhance the pleasure of the entertainment, as did the expert manipulation of the lights which gave the splendid color effects by Earl Pound, the finished trombone player of the band. Mr. Pound also handled the moving picture machine, whose novel delineations of the "whole Dam family" from Papa and Mamma Dam through grown up children and the baby to the Dam dog, and other scenes were as fine as we ever saw.

The show was, taken altogether for amusement and entertainment, the best that ever came to Henry.

The last grand transformation scene, the "Good Night," was undoubtedly the finest thing of the kind ever seen in Henry. Cap. Emerson has, without any question, a very fine show, and if he ever comes to Henry again will play to a big house.—Times, Henry, Ill.

This show will be at Hickman in a short while.

The Cobb and Nichols School of Dresden, Tenn.

Every citizen of Dresden is justly proud of having in this community an institution so ably managed, doing a class of work so superior, possessing an unexcelled faculty, as the Cobb and Nichols Training School, Chas. H. Cobb and J. Walter Nichols, principals. Both these young men are graduates of Vanderbilt university, where they were specially prepared for training school work, and that is just what their school here is—a training school in the fullest and most complete sense of the term. This has been clearly demonstrated by the work of this school during the past two years and today we are rejoiced to say to the public that the outlook for a successful opening this fall is most encouraging.

The pupils that have gone out from the Cobb and Nichols school are its best advertisement, if any it needs other than its high-class, thorough work. The boys and girls who come to Dresden to attend school are taken care of by the faculty and are admitted into the best homes of our town; they are made to feel welcome and at home, as it were, and the faculty sees to it that they do not loaf around the streets neither night nor during the day.—Dresden Enterprise.

Some News of Interest at the Court House.

Tyle to Farmers Hardware Co., Powell Block in Hickman, $5000. Lewis Graham to Jessie Martin and Nadge Granberry, town lots in Fulton.

A Vacancy in the Hickman College Faculty.

A vacancy has occurred in the faculty of Hickman College, caused by the resignation of Miss Threlkeld. The applications for filling this vacancy will be considered by the board of trustees, and application, are asked to be filed as early as possible.

Dr. F. D. Kelley and wife, of Greenville, Ky., arrived here Thursday. Dr. Kelley is an Osteopath and practical Optician of several years experience and has located here for the practice of his profession. He asks us to announce that he will be ready to receive patients by the 6th of this month. His office is temporarily at the Price House.

Cannot Something be Done to Remedy This Nuisance?

It would seem that Hickman was in the throes of a gang of burglars that are operating together. During the past week a number of small burglaries have occurred. The residence of Earl Hammonds in West Hickman was entered and about $9 taken. The residence of J. E. Fuqua and Dr. P. B. Curlin were attempted and a number of others thought they heard noises about their premises at wee hours in the day. A Mr. Davis who runs a lunch stand near the College was held up by four masked men one night while on his way home. His presence of mind probably saved him from being robbed of about a hundred dollars. He ran and shot at the men. It would be well, in our opinion, for a vigilance committee to be formed and have some watches in the various parts of the city. Perhaps some of this night prowling can be stopped. When the situation gets as bad as it has now gotten it is time for something to be done.

The students of The Cobb & Nichols School are required to stay in their rooms at night to study, nor are they allowed to loiter on the streets during the day.

The Negro, Allen Mathis, Meets His Just Fate.

Probably the most heinous of brutal crimes ever perpetrated in the state of Kentucky, was that in which the black wretch, Allen Mathis, a 17 year old negro, detained and criminally assaulted Miss McClane, a young white girl in Mayfield, one night last week. Miss McClane, a poor, but respectable, and it is claimed one of the most lovable young women in Mayfield, was on her way from the telephone office where she worked, when the brute criminally assaulted her in a lonely spot on the railroad. After accomplishing his purpose he had his hand on her mouth and a knife to her throat, and told her if she screamed he would kill her. Just then another negro was passing near and heard her screams and ran to her assistance. Mathis ran but was closely chased by a gang of section men and others. Miss McClane was bruised and bleeding and was assisted to a safe place by the negro rescuer. Mathis was caught and by almost a miracle escaped lynching by the angry mob. Excitement was so intense that it was thought best to remove him to Paducah, but with another narrow escape at lynching. After he was landed in the Paducah jail the mob made another attempt to get their man. He was then taken to Louisville for safe keeping. Judge Bugg ordered empaneled a special grand and petit jury and a scaffold built, telling the people to let the law deal with him, that as soon as a form of law could be carried out he would be hung. This to some extent quieted them although the jail was searched again, making the fourth attempt at lynching. The grand jury indicted him, and the officers arrived with him Tuesday evening at 6:40, and in 55 minutes he had been conveyed to the court house, tried, sentenced, taken to the jail yard and his neck broken.

Between the time sentence of death was passed and the execution the crowd tore down the 20 foot stockade that surrounded the jail in order that all might witness the execution.

Men and women held their children up to witness the fate of the despoiler of Kentucky womanhood.

The body of the dead woman was carried through the streets in a coffin. The handcuffs were still upon the dead black arms and the crowd of negroes standing by were called upon to witness the fate and take warning therefrom.

Lee Kelso, the colored man who aided Miss McClane when she needed it most, was carried about the city by whites and cheered for the part he performed.

The body was placed in a coffin by the Coroner and carried to the court house but the infuriated people were not yet through. The carcass was dragged out of the coffin and dragged through the streets until 10:30.

This is justice and the kind we like to see. The authorities are to be commended upon their persistency in letting the law deal with the brute; of course this is the best for any community in which such an outrage is committed, and although we know that mob rule is not best, it does look like summarily dealing is none too bad for such.

As an evidence of the sympathy in the community for the unfortunate lady, a purse has been made for her benefit, of nearly $600.

THESE FELL IN LOVE

Marriage license was issued this week to Jas. R. Adair and Allie B. Bushart. Rev. N. B. Craves tied the knot.

A man who never saw his bride obtained a marriage license Tuesday and the pretty bride led him to the county judge's office where they were united. The couple were W. E. Harper, aged 22, of Harrisburg, Ill., and Ella Powell, aged 21, of Merria, Ill. He is totally blind.

Mr. Levi George and Miss Addie Gammons were united in matrimony Monday morning at the Court House by Judge W. A. Naylor.

Mr. George is a highly respected farmer located several miles west of Hickman. The bride is well thought of among a large circle of friends and acquaintances, who wish them both a long life of domestic felicity.

OVER THE DARK RIVER

Mary Will, aged two and a half years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hall, died Tuesday morning, at her home near Pilot Oak.

Mrs. V. Shepard died at her home near Hickman, on Route 2, Friday night of last week. A child three days old survived her. Sympathy is extended the father and family.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Killebrew, aged 51, wife of T. B. Killebrew, died Friday morning of cancer. She was a devoted member of the Christian Church. Rev. G. W. Long of Union City, Tenn., conducted the funeral services Saturday morning at Mount Moriah churchyard.

Mr. Lum McClellan, well known throughout this county, living north of Cayce, died at his home Monday night and was buried at Rush Creek Tuesday morning. The funeral services were conducted by the Masons, of which lodge he was a member. Mr. McClellan was well known in Hickman and vicinity, having been a citizen of the Cayce neighborhood for many, many years.

A wife and ten children, eight girls and two boys, survive him. We extend condolence to the family in their loss.

Mrs. Kate C. Buck, aged 71 years died at her home on Carroll street yesterday morning at 7:30. She was the widow of the late Thos. C. Buck, who was in the drug business in Hickman many years ago, and who took into partnership with him in 1873 Mr. Jno. W. Cowgill at present one of our leading druggists.

Mrs. Buck came to Hickman about forty years ago from Strausburg, Va. She was a member of the Methodist Church at this place for the past thirty years or more.

Mrs. Fannie B. Shaw and Mr. Geo. C. Buck were the only children who survive her.

Mrs. Buck was a devout christian, a lovable woman and was loved by all who knew and were associated with her. She lived to a ripe age and has gone to reap her eternal reward in Heaven. Condolence and sympathy are extended the bereaved family by the Courier as well as the entire populace.

The funeral services were conducted at the Methodist Church yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. G. B. Baskerville, and burial at City Cemetery.

Are you in arrears with your subscription? If so pay up, we will print the paper on a cash-in-advance plan; then all will be treated alike and no one will have occasion to complain.

Farmers Hardware Co. New Organization.

Another new business enterprise for Hickman is that of the Farmers Hardware Co., recently organized and composed of Hickman capitalists. Messrs. D. H. Wilson, Geo. J. J. Stephens, H. F. R. R. M. Zier, R. M. Isler and others have purchased the Powell block on Clinton Street, now occupied by W. A. Dadds and W. F. Montague and will put in a complete Hardware and Farming Implement store. The business will be run on the principal as Dietzel's store in City. With such men as these at the head of the firm, we can bespeak for them successful officers are:

A Compliment to One of our Business Men.

The following, quite a compliment to one of our business men, is said by Editor Jim Brice, of the Troy News Banner:

Among the young men of Obion county, who have marked success in life and who have pursued the tenor of their way with singleness of purpose till success has crowned their efforts, is Arch Caruthers, of Hickman, Ky., son of Lawson Caruthers Esq., of Union City. Some dozen years ago, he was struggling along in Union City with a small restaurant, but moved to Hickman in search of greener pastures for his business. This move was the turning point in his career. He soon saw that more spacious and more inviting quarters were necessary to his growing business and with improvements put in a small gasoline engine, with which to run his ice cream freezers, later a larger engine to run his dynamo, from which to get power for his lights and fans. Soon he had contracts to furnish power for fans to other people till this item of his business alone, became a good source of revenue. His conduct as a citizen has been such that the people of Hickman have elected and consider him one of the most efficient members of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen. Recently the capitalists of Hickman organized a large ice manufacturing Co., and Mr. Caruthers on account of his genius for mechanics and his business capacity has been put at the head of this enterprise. He is ably assisted in his private business by his younger brother, Lawson Caruthers Jr.

Col. and Mrs. Wm. Winston, and Misses Mary Sharp Askew and Kirtzie Hairstrom, all notable residents of Columbus, Miss., are the guests of Capt. H. A. Tyler, at his palatial residence on Oakwood Farm. Col. Winston and Capt. Tyler have been life long friends, serving on the same staff through the Civil War, but today as these two old veterans sit surrounded by peace, happiness and plenty, talking of those glorious years from '61 to '65, in their hearts they feel the truth, of the adage: "Peace has its attainments, greater than those of war." The party will remain several weeks before returning to their Mississippi home.

The city of Hickman is justly proud of its unusual accommodations and facilities, but especially so in regard to the pure, cool water supply which is now furnished the city through the efforts of progressive and enterprising citizens. Hardly a day passed that guests of the city remark in very pleasing terms of our unexcelled "aqua pura." A long step towards metropolitanism has been accomplished.

Clifton Steele, of Martin, Tenn., has been visiting his aunt Mrs. G. N. Helm. Mr. Steele has the reputation of being the only student who has ever received 100 per cent in all studies at the Vanderbilt University at Nashville.

THE A. S. OF E. COLUMN

(JAMES H. SAUNDERS)

The Unions of Fulton County meet as follows: Hickman 1st and 3rd Thursday nights, Simmons 2nd and 4th Tuesday 3 p. m., Montgomery 2nd and 4th Wednesday 3 p. m., Cayce 1st and 3d Saturday 3 p. m. the nucleus at Hazel Dell meets 1st and 3d Wednesday at 3 p. m. Every one is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

I met a good friend last week who thinks that it is wrong to organize for the sake of having power. He like all others admits that he farmer has been oppressed and needs help, but he has been oppressed by monopolies and trusts so much that he is opposed to all combination for power. Yet we all acknowledge that "in union there is strength." Kentucky's motto says, "United we stand, divided we fall." Our forefathers united to clear forests, roll logs, raise houses, build forts, stockades, clear roads, and work them, and fight Indians. We united in bands of minute-men to fight for independence. Who suffers more than we in frontier wars in all our wars with French, English, Spanish and Indians? Although our parents left the Old Dominion to be free to hunt bear, deer and buffalo in the forests and to worship God under our own vines and shade trees according to the dictates of our own conscience, yet we found it necessary to unite for power to fight the savages and to protect ourselves from foreign powers. As we were a stubborn, liberty loving people, the national government was disposed to let us enjoy our freedom, but we found it necessary to call ten conventions and knock long and loud for admittance into the federal union to help us with the power of thirteen sister republics who really liked to be free themselves but finally concluded that they needed even Kentucky to help the central government. So our western neighbors and friends have united with us for the sake of power to cope with the mighty armies of kings and queens united we are one of the mighty nations of the earth through union.

The preamble to our constitution says, We the people of the United States in order to form a more perfect union establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

But is justice established when a few men called a board of trade, sit in consultation and set the price of every bushel of corn, wheat, oats and rye raised in the country, yea and every pound of beef, pork, and mutton without so much as asking the farmers who produce all these things "by your permission."

Labor, all labor has the God-given right to protect itself. Whether it is labor of the factory, the mines, the counting room, the printing office, or on the farm, the same alienable right exists.

The factor in creating, in remodeling, in making wholesome for the human body, in making beautiful for the eye, or pleasant to the taste is the fundamental factor, and the mere fact of its primary position in the order of life should make it first in line of protection, and the division of returns from successful results. This is the natural viewpoint of all well-meaning, honest equitable men. But there is an element in the commercial life of the world, a barnacle rather, that has engrafted itself on the produce of the earth, a sap sucking, unholly, godless thing that is holding up and gorging itself on labor's portion. This thing is the soulless, non-producing, cunning, conscious speculator, gambling on farm products. It is ill-gotten gains turned loose to the detriment of the producer. It is the wealth of the inequitable thing manipulated to throttle equity. Boards of trade as now run are the devil's work shop engaged in forging profits for the non-producing class from the results of honest labor. It is the greatest blight in the body economic, a danger that threatens the very life of the farming industries of America. It is a bold, fearless, devilish power that often defies the laws of the municipality and the state. It has no base in justice and honor and exists simply because of the indifference and former neglect of the one power that can dethrone it, the grand, majestic, sweeping strength of co-operative production of organized farm interests and farm labor. Its inequity has been tolerated because there were none who raised the cry of equity, because the individual farmer was impotent in his feeble strength.

This is the condition that has obtained under in-action, the natural result of indifference and neglect on the part of the producers. It is the flattering of the unworthy while the deserving ones, those who have all along been putting forth their strength laboring honestly and continually on the farm have grown coin in purse and crib. It is illustrative of the old proverb of "saving at the spigott and wasting at the bung hole."

The farmer has been shortsighted in the matter of marketing his produce. He has plowed, and sowed and reaped, and then dumped the fruits of his labor into the lap of the conscienceless speculator, who has not hesitated to manipulate the market to his own selfish ends, allowing the farmer an inadequate portion. And thus has come about the hold-up of labor's portion. In this way his inequity all along prevailed, until now, after a realization of the unfavorable conditions, an awakening on the part of the producers that is becoming general co-operation and organization is beginning to obtain, when it should have been in existence years and years ago. A demand is now being made by the farmers for a release of labor's portion, and an equitable distribution of the rewards of honest industry and thrift.

The question, the agitation and the demand for equitable prices is now a vital issue, one on which the farmers everywhere can, and must unite to their mutual benefit. The issue is sharply defined, and the fight is now on. Labor's portion in the returns for the produce of American soil is now at stake. A long pull and a strong pull is now being made to rescue the farmer's crops from the grip of the gamblers, and it needs only united effort to succeed. Let labor hold back her portion for once, let the men who grow the crops store them at home as largely as possible, thus letting the market manipulators waste away for the want of subsistence and the victory is won. No one has either the moral or the legal right to put a price on the produce of the farm, but those who grow it and for this principle every American farmer should hold out till the last ditch. The producers can win. They are sure to win in the long run, for they have equity on their side, and they have crops on the farms where they were grown. The thing to do is to make the storage at home as great as possible, and the offerings as meagre as financial conditions will permit, and then it will only be a question of a short time until the dealers will come to the producers and gladly pay the price the latter shall have put on the product of their labor. And then it will come to pass that labor's portion will be delivered up to the hands that wrought it, and not be held up by intermediate parties who have no legal claim on it either morally or commercially. But the question is, "Is it right to organize for power."

Our forefathers fled from political and religious persecution and formed thirteen colonies. These colonies were compelled to unite for power to maintain their liberty. Washington never could have gained our independence if these colonies had not united for power. One of the objects of the constitution was to provide for the common defense, another was to establish justice. It surely is not justice for a few non-producers to rule and govern the wages of ten million laborers. We have slept on our rights and suffered them to be taken away. Our forefathers united to defend them, both political and religious.

Our Savior himself came to earth to organize his church for power. He said to Peter, "On this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." After he had prepared the foundation for this church, had been crucified and risen from the dead He said "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth." Then if it was right for our forefathers to unite for power to protect our liberty and right for the apostles to unite under the direction of the Savior to save our souls, why can it be wrong for us to unite to protect what is justly our own. The Book teaches that "If any provide not for his own and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel."

We are revising our subscription list. Recently we sent out statements to those whose subscriptions have long since expired. We will print the paper on a cash-in-advance plan and when your subscription expires will discontinue unless you ask us to keep sending it. If you do not want the paper and will kindly inform us we will gladly scratch your name, but please don't be mean enough to take the paper two or three years and when asked to pay for it put it back into the postoffice and ask the postmaster to mark it refused, as has been the case with a number.

Mistress Odell, of Beaumont, Tex., after visiting her brother, J. O. Barnes, left last week for St. Louis and Des Moines, Iowa, to spend the remainder of the summer.

Notice to Patrons of Hickman Ice & Coal Co.

TO OUR PATRONS:

We are using every effort to perfect the service of the Electric Light and Water Plant, leased from the city, and to do this we will be forced to urge prompt collections.

All of our bills will be due and payable on the first of each month at our office, which is temporarily domiciled at the Hickman Marble Works building. If bills are not paid by 5 o'clock p. m., on the tenth of each month, it will be taken for granted that it is the patron's wish that we discontinue the service and the shut off will be made without further notice. Money tendered after the 10th of the month must be accompanied with $1 extra for lights and water, in the event both are to be used, and the amount of the bill for that month together with any amount that may due in past month's bills. The charge is made for turning off and on, and in the event our plumber and electrician has not made out off promptly the rule will apply justly the same. In some cases it might not be so convenient for us to have the same made promptly, and for this reason we wish the rule to apply the same as if the work had been done.

Sprinkling should be done early in the morning and late in the evening, and patrons persisting in sprinkling throughout the entire day will be charged extra, according to the approximate amount of water used.

Do not allow your hydrants to stand open when not in use, as it creates a useless waste of water and benefits no one.

Hose for sprinkling must be fitted with a nozzle, the same as was required by the city.

You are requested to forbid your children wasting the water with the sprinkling hose.

There will be no distinction made in the application of these rules, and we beg to state that we are not asking any of them at any individual but to the public generally.

It is simply a business proposition with us, and we ask your hearty cooperation in assisting us in making the system a success.

Success to us means convenience to the public that have not heretofore been enjoyed, and with the sufficient supply of good, pure artesian water on hand means health to the community at large.

Help us and you will be helping yourselves. Your friends,

S. L. DODD & CO.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Patience and hope makes it easier to bear the cares and sorrows of life.

Money and time are the heaviest burdens of life, and the unhappiest of all mortals are those who have more of either than they know how to use.

Do today's duty, fight today's temptations. Do not weaken or distract yourself looking forward to things you can not see, and could not understand if you saw.

Failure does not always mean weakness; it may mean strength not quite strong enough for the greater task. People who attempt nothing seldom fail. Napoleon failed at Waterloo because all of Europe was arrayed against him.

There's in this world many wonderful things. Crystal rivers, mountains wearing eternal coronets of snow, the oceans and continents, the sun riding in majesty through its pathway of stars, his rependent robes trailing like burnished gold over land and sea. The age itself in which we live is one of miracle, but of all the wonderful creatures of man and his creator, there is nothing grander, more wonderful or more valuable, than true woman. Her price is far above rubies. Woman, wife, mother! These three degrees complete the magic circle in which she lives, moves and has her being and glory.

"The first day I was sent to school I went home at recess, thinking school was out," says Bert Walker.
"As I have grown older I find that a whole lot of people did the same thing, and the sad part of the affair is that too many of us never went back." In this life be careful that you don't go home at recess. If you start to learn a trade or profession, stay by it and master it.
Don't chase away at recess. If you have a business attend to it and—don't go home at recess. This going home at recess has sent many in to bankruptcy. It has caused mother's tears to flow and mother's heart to ache. It has made crusty old bachelors and sour old maidens.
It has filled worlds with ignorance and made barren deserts of plains.
Going home at recess means that you have fallen asleep at the switch and your train has plunged into the ditch. Always stay until school is out.

Many of our brightest young men with lives of rare promise, early turn their attention to a political career which soon proves their downfall.
We soon find them drinking the health of the aspirant for political honors; drinking with "the boys" to insure their votes; drinking toasts at the reception of the victorious candidate; drinking with everybody before the election, and a great deal more afterwards. All this has fixed a habit which he cannot shake off and in the retirement of his own home he turns to the wine bottle for the excitement which he formed in politics. Young men keep out of politics only as you let your influence be felt for their purification.

One of the many interesting sights at Yellowstone Park is the eagle mother teaching the young to start on the journey of life. With her own wing she pushes the young bird off the rock of the high ledge, which had been the only home it had ever known. With a mother's eye she watches it fall but before it strikes the rocks below, with the speed of the wind she darts beneath it and the young eagle finds a soft landing upon the feathers of its mother's back. It is then carried to the highest cliff and the experiment repeated until the young eagle gets strength in its wings and can safely go on life's journey alone. With the same watchful care does the good mother see her flock one by one, leave the old home. One by one she lets them go. One to be a missionary, one a doctor and one a pubular. Since taking Cardui I feel like a lisher. With the eye of an eagle she watches them as they successfully travel in their chosen paths, and they frequently cast a look back and see their ever faithful mother still watching. To whom is their success due? Verily to that mother whose christian teaching started their little feet aright and whose saint-like face acted as a beacon light to them when tossed upon the strong sea of temptation.

A girl whose days are spent in idleness, dreaming of things that can never come to pass, or reading unwholesome books, while her mother tolls in the kitchen, had better never be born. Her life is purposeless; a dead weight for her father and brothers to carry with them; she is a misery to herself and friends; she is shunned by all sensible young men and finally becomes a cross, peevish, irritable old maid. If she is so fortunate as to escape the temptations so likely to ensue one whose moral senses are rendered blunt by reading the questionable exploits of the heroes and heroines of the modern novel—the curse of our homes; the thing that ruins more young men and young women than all other evils combined—the foe that all true mothers should fight as they would an adder.

The happy, ideal home is not the home of wealth, neither is it the home of extreme poverty. In the ideal home you may not see any costly furniture, no grand piano or stately pictures; yet how pleasant and contented the inmates. The father has no business cares or political ambitions to vex him; the mother has no trouble with unruly servants. No question of fine display in dress to occupy her thoughts.
With pleasure the father and mother see the first tottering steps of the little one, and feel the exquisite joy which it brings to the heart of the parent to know that the child of the first-born can walk. In the home of the rich the children are put to bed by the servants while the parents are at the opera. The wealthy know not of the pleasure of family and home when compared with those in very moderate circumstances.

A Hickman sport tells us that Panama hats are out of style. Ever try straining soft soap through 'em?

Hickman has had the illuminated clock, the illuminated nose and the illuminated curtain lecture; why not the illuminated key-hole?

After all this is a good old world!
It must be if from out of it we enter a realm where for ages the eye is fire and the heart is flame.

Tens of thousands of people fail because they love their ease too much. They are not willing to put themselves out, to sacrifice comfort.

A prize pup is always locked up at night to keep him from becoming lost. A boy is frequently allowed to run loose. As a result, the world is full of unpublished want ads. for boys who are lost forever.

The recent marriage of Everett Domme and Sarah Fules at Benton-ville, Ark., might have attracted but ordinary attention had not the editor of the local paper headed the announcement "Domme-Fules."

"Speaking of phonetic spelling and new languages," said a Hickman merchant, "my wife's got a language all her own. It's the language she uses when she is doing up her hair and has her mouth full of hairpins."

Talking about the gentle art of dissimulation—did you ever know a man equal to the task performed by many a woman who smilingly greets a disagreeable caller at the critical moment when the jelly refuses to "jell?"

Mabel's doll is a beautiful creature with eyes that open and shut, a pretty face and long, golden curls. When you squeeze it, the doll says "mama!" Mabel has a beautiful big sister with glorious blue eyes, rose-bud lips and lustrous, golden hair.
Last night a young man squeezed her for 40 minutes and she never screamed "ma-ma!" once.

When a man is published to the world as being heavily laden with honors that he never received and tries to make the world believe he is "sum punkins" when he has never blown and shed any sweet fragrance on the air, he is verging on the brink where silly egotists are wrecked. Strange that a man will thus risk and tempt exposure.

A man may use the mole on the back of his neck for a collar button; he may ride a freight to save three cents a mile; he may light the lamp with a splinter to save matches; he may stop his watch at night to save wear; he may propose to his wife on a postal card to save a stamp; use a period for a semi-colon to save ink; pasture his grandmother's grave to save hay; but a man of this kind is a scholar and a gentleman, compared with the man who will take a newspaper and when asked to pay for it, put it back in the postoffice marked "refused."

A word to you sonny—you little twelve or thirteen-year-old boy who is smoking cigarettes on the fly.
What do you want to be when you grow up—a stalwart, healthy, vigorous, broad-shouldered man, or a little, puny, measly, no 'count weak-minded dude? If you want to be a man, strong like a man, with hair on your face, brains in your head and muscles in your limbs, you just let those cigarettes alone. If you want to be a pig, pitted by your folks, despised by the girls, and held in contempt by the fellows, keep right on smoking and end your days in the insane asylum.
